INTRODUCTION

Riley Mathewson Public Relations consultancy focuses on developing and executing strategic communication solutions that contribute to the fulfilment of your corporate strategy.

We provide professional PR services including marketing communications, social media, government relations, investor relations, issues and crisis communications management, stakeholder risk analysis and litigation public relations. Added to these are more specialised corporate communications disciplines such as internal communications, information programs, media liaison and community / stakeholder consultation and engagement.

Our commitment to excellence has earned us 22 State and national awards for both private and public sectors.

Riley Mathewson's highly skilled senior practitioners and support staff are focused on contributing to your business goals.

We have experience across just about every industry sector, with in-depth exposure to the resources, property, retail, transport, hospitality, personal services and beverage sectors. For reasons of commercial confidence we can't publish all of our clients, however for a selection of our client base, past and present see page 16.

Riley Mathewson Public Relations is locally owned and operated, managing national and international work from Perth, and through the Edelman Group with offices in more than 40 countries. You can also follow us on LinkedIn, Facebook and Twitter.

SERVICE METHODOLOGY

Our business is driven by your specific objectives. We seek first to understand you, your organisation and its goals, before we seek to advise or recommend.

Rather than sell the same services to everyone, we recommend the strategy and techniques that best fit your needs and requirements.

Each campaign or project plan is developed and implemented by a team of highly professional consultants whose individual and collective expertise and experience ensure clients receive strategic advice balanced with effective implementation.

Our professional and support staff are focused on contributing to your business goals. Our senior practitioners are the practitioners who manage your account and execute your work.

RMPR is committed to providing consistently high quality work and excellent service for our clients, and has a number of structured and proven systems to support this - from production schedules and program timetables, through to easy-to-read, transparent invoices, and a 24-hour emergency response service.

SERVICE OFFERING

We offer a full suite of communications services that are driven totally by our clients' needs. These services include marketing communications, government (lobbying) and investor relations, issues and crisis communications management, stakeholder risk analysis and litigation public relations. Added to these, we provide specialised corporate communications disciplines including internal communications, information programs, general media liaison and community / stakeholder consultation and engagement. Whilst we often integrate social media and other digital services into our campaigns across these disciplines, we also offer stand-alone consultancy in this space.

We also offer clients exclusive access to proven stakeholder models, sophisticated digital medium skills, practical issues and media management procedures, and a panel of senior associates with expert knowledge of government, finance, information technology and legal matters.

SERVICES

Government Relations

Effectively engaging with the various arms of government can provide strong guidance for sensitive issues, gain support and assistance, influence regulation and enhance corporate positioning.

The specialist assistance provided by Riley Mathewson can ensure your organisation's message is communicated in an effective and professional manner.

Services offered include:

- Ministerial engagement
- Government liaison and negotiations
- Influencing legislative change
- Research and issues monitoring
- Policy assessment and analysis
- Preparation of position and/or briefing papers
- Submissions and presentations to government

Our regular contact with senior public servants, State and Federal Ministers, local government, NGOs and other community representatives gives our clients an understanding of the current issues, knowledge of the internal workings of government, and access to decision-makers. All RMPR senior staff are registered lobbyists.

SERVICES

Issues and Crisis Management

Effective, ongoing issues management strategies and readily available crisis communication procedures are important for all government and industry groups, including the mining, energy, manufacturing, construction, food production, information technology, infrastructure, hospitality and health industries.

Our practitioners are skilled at developing and implementing strategies for clients confronted with major crises or issues of public concern. Our processes combine various public relations techniques to build, maintain and strengthen relationships with media, government, investors, customers, employees and other community stakeholders.

Our issues and crisis management services include:

- Stakeholder risk assessment, analysis and mapping, communication and liaison
- Relationship building and corporate positioning
- Sentinel5 crisis communications processes and procedures
- Sophisticated integration of digital / social media into issues and crisis communications programs
- Coordination and staging of mock crisis scenarios
- Management of crisis communications

The ability to act quickly and decisively is critical in protecting reputations as is the need for clear and consistent communications. For this reason, Riley Mathewson also offers a 24-hour emergency response system, with around-the-clock access to experienced practitioners.

SERVICES

Marketing Communications

It is certainly true that many marketing communications practitioners now regard PR as a fulcrum in the battle to win over consumers' hearts and minds by creating a favourable shift in attitudes and behaviour.

Whatever your overarching corporate marketing strategy, PR has a key role to play in the marketing communications mix.

Riley Mathewson doesn't just take a "media release and ad" or "product placement" approach to this critical PR area. Our professional staff have managerial experience in the articulation of organisation values, strategy and the cross-organisational notion of brand architecture. We seek to understand your brand's DNA along with your communications objectives before leaping into a marketing communications program.

SERVICES

Investor Relations

You can have some of the best exploration assets in the world with a management team capable of delivering those assets into reality but if you can't get your story heard in an increasingly crowded market place, your market cap will suffer.

Riley Mathewson Public Relations specialises in providing the right advice combined with the right contacts for new start-ups and explorers transitioning to production – allowing them to be heard.

We don't just focus on resources companies; we assist industrial and services based companies as well.

- Brand protection
- Brand development
- Crisis communication
- Media relations
- CSR – specialists for overseas projects and indigenous participation
- Internal communications
- Compliance reporting
- IPO advice and strategic communications

SERVICES

Stakeholder Risk Analysis

Our expertise ensures your stakeholder engagement efforts are directed to the right people at the right time.

Don't take the shotgun approach to communicating with your stakeholders; let us help you identify the issues you may face and then connect you with those critical stakeholders in a focused program of engagement.

Our process provides clear directions for organisational engagement and establishes buy-in from within your organisation around agreed key messages.

We can help you:

- Develop risk statements
- Rank your risks
- Map risks
- Develop communication or stakeholder engagement plans
- Mitigate your risks
- Develop key messages
- Develop stakeholder databases
- Track your engagement efforts.

SERVICES

Litigation Public Relations

Winning or losing in the court of public opinion can be just as important as what happens in the court of law – before, during and after everybody has their day in court.

The importance of litigation PR in the corporate world cannot be overstated. While the legal profession has a vital role in determining and resolving the rights and wrongs of a matter, the rest of the world is forming opinions about the business, organisation and people involved. How you present your case in the public domain and to your stakeholders directly influences the equity in your brand and your social operating licence.

Working with your legal advisors to distil legal argument into plain English is fundamental as is the ability to work quickly and professionally with the media to ensure your message is communicated clearly and effectively to stakeholders.

SERVICES

Specialist Corporate Communications

Riley Mathewson's senior practitioners possess a broad skill set. Our professional services also include:

- Community / stakeholder program development and consultation
- Stakeholder engagement and information programs
- Corporate Social Responsibility
 - Developing programs
 - Setting up your first public reports
 - Understanding the directions of how people expect you to be engaged and making it work for you
- Media liaison
- Internal communications planning and implementation
